

Personal Experiences & Perspectives

Some of the stories, observations, and perspectives shared through Trust the Kindness Within are drawn from my own personal experiences and journey.

When I share what I have experienced, learned, or found helpful, I am sharing my individual perspective—not suggesting that everyone will have the same experience or outcome.

I invite you to take what resonates, trust your own discernment, and make the choices that are right for you.